BRAVA Awards

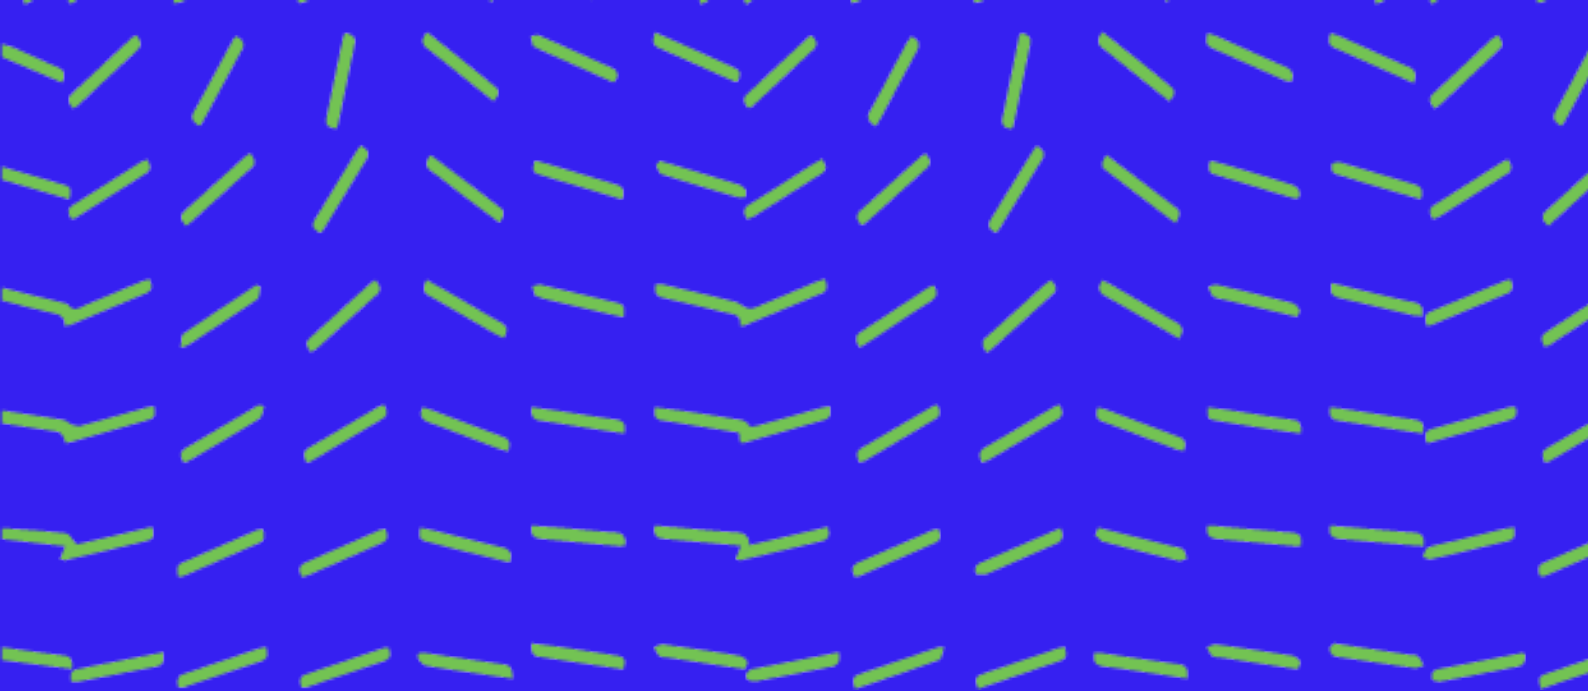

January 2027

Welcome to the 1st Edition

The BRAVA Awards were created to stimulate artistic creation, discover new talent, and grant visibility to the voices shaping the future of the Arts. Fundación BRAVA seeks to generate concrete opportunities for emerging artists and bring fresh perspectives, ideas, and ways of interpreting the world through art to society.

This first edition is dedicated to pictorial language, calling upon young artists between 19 and 30 years of age to present an artwork. More than just a competition, the BRAVA Awards aim to serve as a platform to discover great talents who, due to a lack of resources, have not yet had the opportunity to make themselves known. This initiative benefits both the artists and society through the value that young excellence provides, promoting a circular cultural economy.

Through this framework, each artwork and artist will actively participate in a virtuous cycle, contributing to generating recurring opportunities in exchange for receiving the designated awards and expanding their personal artistic career.

A Decentralized Model Supporting Art

Fundación BRAVA is designed around a decentralized structure, streamlining the cultural ecosystem without the rigidities or fixed costs of traditional infrastructure. Operating in a decentralized manner allows us to direct 100% of our resources toward what truly matters: discovering emerging talent, funding international artistic residencies, and generating concrete opportunities for creators.

*International Artistic Residency: Fundación BRAVA will cover all expenses related to the 8-week residency, including round-trip airfare from the artist's country of residence, accommodation, workspace, and materials. 2. Eligibility Requirements

The open call is aimed at emerging artists, without distinction of any personal, social, religious, or geographical nature, who are between 19 and 30 years old inclusive as of the closing date of the call, and who are actively engaged in developing their artistic practice at the early stages of their career.

Fundación BRAVA specifically seeks to provide resources, means, and opportunities to artists who, owing to their circumstances, face financial difficulties in developing professionally. Within this framework, the quality, singularity, and potential of the artwork will be evaluated.

In the final evaluations, the jury will consider the context in which the artist conducts their practice, their production to date, its coherence and evolution, the conditions and opportunities they have had to develop it, and the potential for future qualitative projection.

Who CANNOT Participate?

Individuals who, as of the call's closing date, fall under any of the following categories are ineligible:

- Do not fall within the established age range.
- Hold an exclusive commercial representation agreement with an art gallery or art dealer.
- Have held solo exhibitions in major museums or institutions.
- Fall under any of the disqualifying conflicts of interest set forth in these Terms and Conditions.

Fundación BRAVA reserves the right to request documentation proving strict compliance with these requirements at any stage of the competition. The applicant will be held responsible for the truthfulness of their statements, keeping Fundación BRAVA harmless against claims or damages resulting from false or omitted information.

- Persons whose relationship with Fundación BRAVA, its partners, or sponsors involves a direct conflict of interest with the selection process.

(Note: A professional or institutional relationship with a partner or sponsor does not, in itself, imply exclusion from the competition.)

Sworn Statement: To complete your application, you must accept the Authorship and Participation Commitment on the application platform, confirming that the information provided is true and that the artwork meets the competition's requirements.

3. Artwork Requirements

- Technique and Supports: Artworks rendered through pictorial languages using oil, acrylic, watercolor, tempera, gouache, and/or mixed pictorial media on canvas, linen, wood, or paper will be accepted. - Artificial Intelligence: The use of artificial intelligence (AI) is strictly prohibited at any stage of the artwork's creation, modification, completion, or intervention. The piece must be executed entirely by the applicant. Any use of AI will result in immediate disqualification, even if discovered after selection as a finalist or winner.
- Unpublished Status: The artwork must be unique, created between 2025 and 2026, and must not have been previously exhibited, awarded, or nominated in national or international competitions. Incorporating partial or modified works by other artists without explicit authorization from the author or their legal heirs is prohibited (and must be attached to the submission if applicable).

Selection will focus exclusively on the quality, singularity, consistency, and potential of the artwork, alongside the rules established in these Terms. Deliberations are strictly confidential, and the Jury's decision will be final and unappealable.

Shipping, Packaging, and Insurance

Covered by Fundación BRAVA:

- International transport from the country of origin to Uruguay.
- Subsequent transport required for BRAVA Awards exhibitions.
- Insurance during transit and exhibitions up to a maximum coverage of USD 1,000 per artwork, subject to policy conditions.

Artist Responsibilities:

- Artwork dimensions must not exceed 150 × 150 cm (including stretcher frame or support) and must be shipped unframed and without glass.
- Provide the artwork securely packed in rigid, durable packaging suitable for international shipping (in a tube or crate, as applicable).
- Packaging preparation and costs are the sole responsibility of the artist.

Note: Works must be shipped rolled in a rigid tube. If conservation needs require shipping mounted on a frame or rigid support, the artist must indicate this upon application. Fundación BRAVA is not responsible for damages caused by inadequate packaging.

Touring Exhibition

By applying, the artist authorizes Fundación BRAVA to include selected finalist artworks in touring exhibitions associated with the BRAVA Awards inside and outside Uruguay. Dates and venues will be communicated in due course.

Return of Artworks

Following the conclusion of the exhibition circuit, Fundación BRAVA will coordinate the return of non-winning artworks. Return shipping costs to the country of origin are the sole responsibility of the artist.

Artists will have 7 calendar days from the official conclusion notice to contact art@fundacionbrava.org and coordinate collection or shipment. If an artist fails to make contact within this period, the artwork will be considered irrevocably donated to Fundación BRAVA, becoming part of its collection under the same conditions as winning works. Due to its decentralized nature, Fundación BRAVA lacks storage facilities for uncollected works.

Image Rights

Participants grant Fundación BRAVA royalty-free authorization to use their name, image, biography, statements, and artwork photos exclusively for promotional and communication purposes related to the BRAVA Awards across catalogues, social media, websites, press, and other media.

7. What Happens to Awarded Artworks?

Winning artworks enter Fundación BRAVA's permanent collection. The Foundation reserves the right to conserve, exhibit, reproduce, or disperse them for cultural, educational, or institutional purposes, as well as to sell or auction them to fund future editions of the BRAVA Awards, residencies, scholarships, and cultural programs. The artist's moral rights and authorship will always be recognized.

Award Payments

Prize amounts are listed in gross US Dollars (USD) before applicable local taxes according to the winner's tax residence. Payments will be executed via bank transfer to an account solely owned by the winning artist within 30 days following the official decision announcement.

Allocation of Funds

Fundación BRAVA is a non-profit philanthropic organization active in Visual Arts, Music, Nature, and the Environment. Revenue generated through the potential sale or auction of works cannot be distributed as profit.

All proceeds will be directed exclusively toward statutory goals, including funding future BRAVA Awards, residencies, grants, and artistic development.

If a collection piece is sold, the artist will receive 30% of the net final sale value (amount received after deducting direct costs, commissions, fees, etc.). To prevent overlapping economic benefits, the original prize money paid to the artist will be deducted from this additional payout.

Purpose of this Initiative

The potential sale or auction of artworks aligns with Fundación BRAVA's circular patronage model: value generated within the artistic ecosystem is reinvested into creating new opportunities for future artists.
